

NGA-NASA Commercial Very-High Resolution Satellite Data Use Agreement

This Agreement is entered into on _____ by _____ (date) (name)

with the understanding that the commercial very-high resolution satellite data provided by NASA for use in the NASA-funded project identified below falls within the National Geospatial-Intelligence Agency's Nextview License Agreement. By signing this agreement you agree to adhere to the terms of the license and conditions below.

Data use guidance:

1. The data covered under the Nextview License are data that have been collected by Digital Globe and/or GeoEye under the EnhancedView contract and its predecessors (Clearview and Nextview) by the National Geospatial-Intelligence Agency.
2. The Nextview Licensed imagery acquired and used under this agreement will be used only for the project identified below. Use outside this stated purpose will result in loss of access to the data and/or legal recourse on the part of the Copyright holder of the data.
3. The raw data will not be made available to the public, will not be placed on publicly accessible web sites, and all reasonable efforts will be made to ensure that all data are not released or distributed outside the scope of the NASA-funded project identified below. Imagery-derived products described in section 3.a.4 of the Nextview Imagery End User License Agreement (see page 3) may be released publicly except when such release violates the commercial impact clause in 3.b.3. NGA has directed that the public release of digital elevation models (DEMs) extracted from Nextview-licensed imagery between 60° South and 60° North, excluding Alaska, Greenland, and the sub-Antarctic Islands, violates the commercial impact clause and is not permitted. Public release exceptions may be granted according to the framework detailed here.
4. Reduced-resolution jpeg images can be used in presentations, published in academic and/or professional media. However, published commercial very-high resolution satellite data cannot be manipulatable in any manner (i.e, they must be so-called "dumb jpegs"). Approval must be obtained from NGA to use commercial satellite imagery (imagery and imagery derived products) in the public domain, including, but not limited to: academic journals, posters, public presentations, website, blogs, or social media.
5. There can be no commercial use or gain from either use of the commercial very-high resolution satellite data provided or from publications describing these data.
